With great pride, the Carlsbad Community Foundation recently awarded scholarships to local graduating seniors. They beamed with pride as they received their awards. And deservedly so. Having sifted through the many applications, selection committee members and I know what they have done in and out of school that has led them to this moment.

Some have been able to focus strictly on their academics and high school experience. Others have added jobs to that, perhaps to pay for their first car or to save for college, but for some it was to help their family put food on the kitchen table. Some students already have great accomplishments to their credit and others’ great accomplishment may be the fact that they have persevered in the face of hardship and obstacles about which we will never know.

When awarding scholarships, we are doing much more than simply writing a check. Not only does the award recognize students for their hard work, but it also weaves them into the ongoing legacy of those whose lives are honored or remembered with an endowed fund. Each fund has a story behind it and every award adds another line to it.

In 1984, Oscar Dowling and his daughter Margaret established the Dowling Family Scholarship Fund in honor of his late son James, who graduated in Carlsbad in 1963. This year was the first award of the Epifanio “Epi” Calderon Memorial Loving High School Scholarship. Established by his family, the scholarship is for an Education major. In both cases, the stories will continue to grow well beyond our lifetimes.

Many thanks to all who have helped our community through gifts to endowments. And thanks to all who stop and listen to the stories. They speak to the history and generous culture of our community.

Mike Antiporda is the executive director at the Carlsbad Community Foundation

New online application streamlines review/selection process

The Class of 2016 is ready! Graduates from Carlsbad and Loving High Schools are heading to the next step of their educational career with the knowledge that their community stands behind them. Thanks to the generosity of many donors, the Carlsbad Community Foundation is the largest single provider of local scholarships. This year’s awards included more than 70 scholarships to graduating seniors with a value in excess of $88,000.

The focus on education is clear and this year the Foundation took a big step by moving its application process online. Today’s computer-saavy students took to the new process with ease.

Stacks of paper applications in every corner of the office used to be a common sight, but this year was different. In previous years, students applying for scholarships were required to submit a paper copy of their application for each scholarship they were applying for, along with a copy of their transcripts and any other required materials. The online application eliminated almost all printed copies.

Working with counselors at Carlsbad High School and Loving High School, students had access to the Foundation’s online resources about which scholarships were being offered and what the minimum requirements were to apply. The streamlined application focused on the student, their academic record and their involvement in school and community activities.

Selection committee members were able to review applications for specific scholarships in a table format for easy comparison of qualifications and review transcripts for more information with the click of their mouse.

“I liked the new process,” said Board Member Betty Egbom, who served on several selection committees this year and had also served in the past. “I think it allowed us to make better, more thoughtful decisions.”

Board President Neal Dungan, Board Members Judy Lunardon and Amy Power, and Executive Director Mike Antiporda are shown in the photos congratulating students on their scholarship awards. Board Member Larry Henderson also participated.

The process will be put to use again this summer for non-traditional scholarships that will be offered.

Congratulations to all of this year’s scholarship recipients!
The Class of ‘62

Giving back to the place they call home

The year was 1962 and Carlsbad High School’s senior class proudly walked across the graduation stage. They went on to pursue their dreams, serve in the nation’s military, raise families and improve the lives of those around them. They have accomplished much and are spread out across the country, but they have never lost sight of their roots in Carlsbad.

The importance of education was a driving force behind the idea of a scholarship, first raised by class member Norma Dunn. She and classmate Wendell Lovelis met in Carlsbad in March 2001 and were directed to the Carlsbad Community Foundation. The two pooled their money to provide the first $1,000 for the Class of ’62 Scholarship Fund. And their classmates, who were preparing for their 40th reunion, joined the cause.

That initial gift to the Foundation was just a start, as the endowment fund grew over the years. First, it passed the $10,000 minimum and later, the fund’s balance surpassed $50,000. The fund, as part of the Foundation’s investment portfolio, generates income used to award a scholarship to students who now walk across the graduation stage with their own hopes and dreams. Since 2005, income from the fund has generated enough money to award 11 scholarships totaling more than $7,000, a process that will continue for many years to come.

The Class of Giving back to the place they call home

The year was 1962 and Carlsbad High School's senior class proudly walked across the graduation stage. They went on to pursue their dreams, serve in the nation's military, raise families and improve the lives of those around them. They have accomplished much and are spread out across the country, but they have never lost sight of their roots in Carlsbad.

The importance of education was a driving force behind the idea of a scholarship, first raised by class member Norma Dunn. She and classmate Wendell Lovelis met in Carlsbad in March 2001 and were directed to the Carlsbad Community Foundation. The two pooled their money to provide the first $1,000 for the Class of '62 Scholarship Fund. And their classmates, who were preparing for their 40th reunion, joined the cause.

That initial gift to the Foundation was just a start, as the endowment fund grew over the years. First, it passed the $10,000 minimum and later, the fund's balance surpassed $50,000. The fund, as part of the Foundation's investment portfolio, generates income used to award a scholarship to students who now walk across the graduation stage with their own hopes and dreams. Since 2005, income from the fund has generated enough money to award 11 scholarships totaling more than $7,000, a process that will continue for many years to come.

The determination of class members has been a key to the scholarship's success. Dwight Pitcaithley, who lives in Las Cruces, NM, diligently serves a critical communication role. He maintains a database of contact information for the Class of '62 and frequently sends e-mail messages, not only about the scholarship fund, but also about the health and well-being of their classmates. When a member of the Class of '62 or spouse passes away, classmates frequently make contributions to the scholarship fund in their memory. Gifts to the fund are also made to honor members of the class for birthdays, anniversaries or other events being celebrated.

"It has been a real pleasure for me to reconnect with the Class of '62. While Sally Miller is truly the class historian, I send out semi-regular notes about the scholarship and the good work it does for recent CHS graduates," said Dwight. "I am delighted with the response over the past several years. As the scholarship continues to grow, it provides us an opportunity to give back to a community that nurtured us half a century ago."

"Every one of those people are important," said Curtis. "All of them had some effect on my life now. After we are all gone, I still want the Class of '62 to be remembered."

Sally (Liddell) Miller, Mickey Miller and Dale Janway are all Class of '62 graduates, live in Carlsbad and all continue to play an active role in the success of the scholarship fund. This year, Sally represented the class on the Foundation's selection committee, while Dale represented the class on the scholarship award ceremony held in the old high school's auditorium.

The Class of '62 Scholarship is not the only scholarship fund that honors a graduating class, but the members' organized approach to supporting and growing the fund ensures its ability to support education for many years to come.

Community rallies against child abuse

The Eddy County Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) held its 4th Annual March Against Child Abuse on April 8. The Foundation was proud to take part, along with a huge number of children and fellow residents. The walk traveled down the city’s main road to the sounds of honks of support from motorists and concluded at the courthouse. Participating were New Mexico Governor Susana Martinez, Carlsbad Mayor Dale Janway, Eddy County Sheriff Scott London and District Judge Jane Shuler Gray.
